Fiends at Work!

LEXINGTON BRANCH PASSENGER TRAIN DITCHED.

PUT A TIE IN A TRESTLE.

It Was Struck by the Engine and It and the Tender Went Into the Ditch.

WHAT SUT. HOPKINS SAYS

A Motive for the Crime is Not Known and There is No Clue Upon Which to Work.

The incoming passenger train on the Lexington branch road, No. 194, had a narrow escape from demolishment at a point one-half mile the other side of Hughesville, or eleven and one-half miles from Sedalia, at 10 o'clock last night.

The train was in charge of Conductor Hiram Lewis, and was pulled by Engineer Pat O'Connell, on engine No. 226, with W. H. Finnell as fireman.

West of Hughesville one-half of a mile is a trestle sixteen feet in length and five feet high. Between the ties on the east end of the trestle some fiend had placed a tie so that it projected above the rails nearly three feet.

The engine struck the tie, demolishing the pilot and doubling it beneath the engine. The latter was derailed and rolled down an embankment some eight feet high, landing on its side, the tender accompanying it.

The forward trucks of the baggage car were also derailed, but the rear trucks remained on the track, and the two rear cars were not damaged in the least. Those injured were:

Pat O'Connell, engineer, bruised about the right side, but able to be around as usual today.

W. H. Finnell, fireman, bruised about the right shoulder.

W. H. H. Myers, express messenger, bruised about the chest.

The passengers left the belated train and walked to Hughesville, where a special train met them and brought them to Sedalia shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

Detective Pat Lally, of the Missouri Pacific, was in the city when the news of the wreck was received, and at 12 o'clock left for the scene on the special train that was sent out.

A call at the office of Superintendent Hopkins, this morning, elicited the information that there was as yet no clue to the perpetrator of the crime.

The belief is not entertained that robbery was the object, but, instead, that some person who probably had stock killed by the company took this method of seeking revenge.

There are others, however, who think some discharged employe is responsible for the wreck, and he was perfectly willing to sacrifice the life of every passenger on the train to get even with the company.

Superintendent Hopkins Seen.
Superintendent L. D. Hopkins was seen this afternoon by a DEMOCRAT reporter and said:

"There has not been an arrest, because we have no clue whatever upon which to work. What the motive was, unless pure cussedness, is a mystery.

"The first inquiry I made was as to whether any stock had been killed in that vicinity, but there has been none. Then I interrogated as to whether any section man had been discharged, and again I found there had not.

"Whoever did the work made a thorough job of it. It is only five feet from the trestle to the bottom of the ditch, in which there is no water. A large eight-foot white oak tie was placed between the ties on the east end of the trestle, thus furnishing a solid stone wall for a background when the engine struck the tie.

"One end of the tie was down upon the ground while the other end projected above the trestle some three feet, and the only wonder is that the entire train was not ditched and somebody killed."

Detective Lally has the case in hand and nothing will be left undone to apprehend the fiend or fiends who perpetrated the crime.

Is Carrying a Cowhide.

"Big Min" Bartlett is carrying a cowhide this afternoon, and if she meets her husband, Lum Bartlett, she promises to give him a thrashing that he will remember to his dying day. She claims that Lum is out in the company of another woman, and a bawd at that, so there will be music in the air when the two meet.

LATER—"Big Min" met her husband on Main street at 3:30 p. m., in company with a woman named Kelly. "Min" attempted to use her whip, when he took it away from her and gave her a thrashing instead.

Business Suspended.

Business is pretty generally suspended throughout the city this afternoon. The banks are closed, as are also the postoffice and other public offices, and a majority of the Ohio street business houses shut their doors at the noon hour in order that the fair managers might have a sure enough "Big Thursday."

Death of Mrs. Combes.

Mrs. Mary Combes died at her home in Smithton, at 9 o'clock last night, of general debility, aged 79 years. The interment will take place in the Smithton cemetery at 10 o'clock a. m. tomorrow.

HIS CAREER IN SEDALIA.

He Stopped at Hotel LeGrande and Made Many Friends During His Sojourn Here.

Readers of the DEMOCRAT will remember Paul B. Woodlief, who was written up in these columns some three months ago, while a guest at Hotel LeGrande, it being charged that he borrowed certain jewelry of a lady friend in St. Louis and failed to return the property. The St. Louis papers also contained several references to Woodlief's alleged crookedness, but he was not arrested and after a time the matter died out. Here is the latest in regard to Woodlief, taken from the Kansas City Journal of this morning:

Paul B. Woodlief, hailing from Chicago, but claiming Paris, France, as his home, attempted suicide by taking morphine in his room at the Oriental hotel, 216 East Twelfth street, last night at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. Forster refused to prosecute him, upon his explaining that he intended to redeem the property that day. The publication of this fact, he says, caused him to make the attempt upon his life. "I had no intention of theft when I pawned my friend's property," said he. "I was temporarily embarrassed, financially, and took that means of raising a little money. I have money coming to me and would have redeemed the case today, but I have been snubbed by dozens of persons today who had heard of the affair. I am disgraced and have no further interest in life. This attempt has not been successful, but I shall try again."

THE REAL ROYAL RACING.

Exhibition in Full Blast—Bright Outlook for the Remainder of the Week.

There has never been finer racing in Missouri than that at Association park yesterday afternoon. The kite-shaped track was in superb condition and fit for the silver heels of any king or queen of the turf.

In the first race—a 2:35 trot for a stake of $1,000—there were 15 entries, but only four starters—Jay See Ell, Directors Flower, Norvin G., Brown Russell and Duke. Directors Flower, a two-year-old, owned by Mr. Salisbury, of Pleasanton, California, was the favorite among the spectators and sporting men. She had won everything in this season's campaign and kept up the good work in this her first effort in Sedalia. In two straight heats she easily went to victory. The summary:

2:35 trot for two-year-olds and under, two best in three to harness—

Time: 2:27½; 2:21.
The second race was a 2:29 trot—stake, $2,000. In this some of the best horses in the land started—Charlie C., Lady Robert, Currier, Dan Velox, Elsie Sprague, Maxie McGregor, Elsie S., Good Time, and Etta B. It required four heats to settle this contest, and was won by Salisbury's California horse, Charlie C. The summary:

Time: 2:15¼; 2:16½; 2:18; 2:15¾.
The third race—the 2:15 pace for a purse of $1,000, was one of the most exciting ever witnessed in the west. Laura T., owned by Eugene Gibson, of Lamonte, won the first heat in the very fast time of 2:10¾, with Fred K. second. In the second heat she was beaten by Fred K., though in the pools she sold rapidly against the whole field of ten flyers. In the third and last heat she brought the figures still lower, 2:09¾—winning the great contest. The summary:

FOURTH DAY.

Since the modern fair came into vogue, one day in the week has generally stood out above all others in the week and is known as Big Thursday. It is considered as reaching the high-water mark of attendance and attractions.

Today has been no exception to the rule and the fair managers feel reasonably satisfied with the result. The atmospheric conditions were ideal, as they have been on every previous day, and the weather clerk could not have been more accommodating had he been a stock holder in the concern.

CORBETT-MITCHELL.

Police Superintendent Brynes, of New York, Taking a Hand in the Preliminaries.

While Police Superintendent Brynes will not admit that he is after Charlie Mitchell, the English pugilist, for having violated the law in having signed articles with Corbett in New York, it is generally believed among sporting men that he will get his hands on Mitchell if he can find a reasonable semblance of provocation.

It is known that the superintendent is not in love with the Englishman and the inference is but natural that if Mr. Brynes can bother the fighter he will jump at the opportunity. In fact, it looks very much as though he were now jumping.

Whether he can catch his man or not, is another question. It will be very hard to prove that the Englishman signed the articles in New York. At the time he is alleged to have done so nobody was present excepting himself and Judge Newton. The pair left the crowd of sports and others, who had gone to the hotel to see what was done, and adjourned to a private room. When they came out again both said that the terms of the document had been agreed to, but no outsider witnessed the process.

It is scarcely likely that either man will admit so much now, and Judge Newton will prevent any opportunity for any inquisitive person from getting a look at Mitchell's name. Corbett has seen the signature, it is said, but he can scarcely be considered a competent expert of the identity of the Englishman's chirography.

A Monroe County "Hoss."

Speaking of a Monroe county horse shown at the World's fair, the Paris Appeal says: Gov. Flower, of New York, offered Curtright & Ragsdale $4,500 for their renowned stallion, Montrose. The women kissed him and everybody went wild over his beauty. He is one of the prettiest horses in the United States and will win fame for his owners and county yet.

DESERVED PROMOTION.

Charles Hogan the Fast and Safe Driver of the Central Road.

Engineer Charlie Hogan is the recipient of many congratulations. He has repeatedly broken the world's records for fast time in driving a locomotive on the New York Central. His skill and his remarkable record attracted the attention of the directors of the New York Central, and, as a result, he has been appointed traveling engineer for that road. He is to have full supervision of the training of New York Central engineers, and is expected to impart to them the secret of his success—how to get the greatest speed out of an engine without straining the machinery or endangering life.

His method is simple and practical. He first examines his engines thoroughly, often spending four or five hours minutely examining every bolt and nut. His personal examination assures him of the condition of his steed and gives him confidence. Then he pulls the throttle wide open and regulates the speed with the reverse lever. He feeds the water slowly, slows down going up grade and runs at top speed down grade or a level track.

Engineer Hogan's most famous performance was his fast run with Engine 999, in May last, when he drew the Empire state express along at the rate of 102½ miles an hour on her first trip, and a mile in thirty-two seconds on her second trip, a rate of 112½ miles an hour. He is a very steady man, has no bad habits, is courteous and fearless, and under his direction the engineers of the New York Central are all expected to become record breakers.

RED SNOW AND COTTON.

Two Curiosities of Nature Which It Is Difficult to Explain.

Captain Ross discovered on the shores of Baffin's bay a range of cliffs extending for eight miles which were covered with red snow of a brilliant hue, and some times as much as twelve feet in depth. Colored snow storms were recorded as long ago as the sixteenth century, and a shower of red hail was mentioned by Humboldt as having occurred in Palermo. In 1808 red snow fell to a depth of over five feet in Carniola, Germany.

The storm of colored snow was followed by one of ordinary color, and the effect produced by separate layers of red and white, which were perfectly distinct, resembled the mixed hues of lemon and strawberry ice cream. In the first volume of Kane's "Arctic Explorations" it is stated that when the ships passed the "crimson cliffs of Sir John Ross" the patches of red snow could be seen at a distance of fully ten miles.

Red cotton has been raised at Alpharetta, Ga., where a planter had a quantity of cotton, every stock of which is a deep red color, leaf, boll and bloom. This novel crop was the product of seed derived six years ago from two stalks of red cotton found in a cotton field.

THE VISION OF BIRDS.

It Is Often Microscopic and More Acute Than Man's.

Birds have very acute vision, perhaps the most acute of any creature, and the sense is also more widely diffused over the retina than is the case with man; consequently a bird can see sideways as well as objects in front of it. A bird sees—showing great uneasiness in consequence—a hawk long before it is visible to man; so, too, fowls and pigeons find minute scraps of food, distinguishing them from what appear to us exactly similar pieces of earth or gravel.

Young chickens are also able to find their own food—knowing its position and how distinct it is—as soon as they are hatched, whereas a child only very gradually learns either to see or understand the distance of objects. Several birds—apparently the young of all those that nest on the ground—can see quite well directly they come out of the shell, but the young of the birds that nest in trees or on rocks are born blind, and have to be fed.

Like Father Like Son.

A young man returned home a few days ago from a trip to South Africa for his health and in narrating his adventures to his father, he told him he had bought a silver mine for $5,000. "I knew they'd swindle you," exclaimed the old man. "So you were fool enough to buy a humbug mine?" "Yes; but I didn't lose anything. I formed a company and sold half the stock to a Londoner for $6,500." "Y—you did?" gasped the old man, as he turned white. "I'll bet I'm the one who bought it." "I know you are," coolly observed the young man, as he crossed his legs and tried to appear very much at home.

A Criticism Staved Off.

Mr. C. K. Tuckerman records an instance in which Charles Sumner neatly evaded a tact criticism from Macaulay. It was at a London dinner party, when one of the guests asked the American where Washington's body was buried. "His ashes," replied Sumner, somewhat sententiously, "repose on the banks of the Potomac." "His ashes?" said Macaulay, who was present; "was his body burned?" "No," replied Sumner, who perceived the intended satire; "it was buried, like the forefathers of the hamlet, and, like them, 'in his ashes live his wonted fires.'"

More Gate Than Village.

A tourist had visited a small historic town. He was shown the massive wall that surrounded it and the immense town gates. "You need to be very careful," he said, gravely, to the official who was his escort. "Why so?" "Sometime when these gates are open the village may get lost."

CAM SNEED'S SUIT.

He's Not Giving a Square Deal in St. Louis.

A Sedalia gentleman is thus referred to in the Globe-Democrat of this morning:

R. C. Sneed yesterday brought suit against the Annuity Loan and Savings association of St. Louis, and Joseph E. McGinnis, E. S. Guignon, J. W. Darst and eight others. The association has its office in the Wainwright building.

The petitioner says that he, with the gentlemen named as defendants, subscribed $75,000 at the incorporation of the association as a guaranty for the payment of all liabilities of the company.

Each of them, with the exception of one or two, put up his promissory note for half the face of his subscription, secured by stock of class "A" as collateral. Then, for value, the corporation on March 16, 1893, delivered to plaintiff two $1,000 certificates, with semi-annual interest coupons for $30 each.

The first of said coupons became due on September 16, yet when plaintiff presented it at the bank of the association, payment was refused. Plaintiff then states that at a recent meeting of the association the board of directors voted to wind up the business of the concern, but plaintiff protested, and still protests, because if the association stops it won't be able to earn any money to pay him his two bonds.

He alleges that in carrying out this resolution the defendants are dissipating the trust fund, and he wants a receiver appointed to take charge of the securities of the corporation and pay the debts of the same.

A SECRET MARRIAGE.

A Gentleman From Sedalia Said to Have Figured In It.

A dispatch from De Soto, Mo., dated the 27th says: The sequel to a secret and romantic marriage occurred a few days ago when James R. Strauser of Sedalia appeared at the home of John S. McKay, near this place, and claimed his oldest daughter, Miss Hannah McKay, as his wife.

The marriage remained a profound secret for several months, then it was given away by the minister who performed the ceremony. Still nothing definite was known of the marriage, which took place the 10th of last December.

The bride is beautiful and accomplished and is one of Jefferson county's most successful young teachers, while the groom is a stranger here and hails from Shomokin, Pa. His people are said to be among the wealthiest and most influential in the state.

After a short residence in Sedalia the young couple intend making their home in eastern Pennsylvania.

AN ENGINEER'S EXPERIENCE.

He Gave An Oyster Supper After Many Difficulties.

A well known Sedalia engineer, after coming in off of his run the other evening, concluded to give his family and neighbors a treat of fresh oysters. He also had as visitors a newly married couple from another county.

Without any idea of the hustling he would have to do before he got his oysters, the engineer invited his neighbors, and came up town to get the bivalves. He first visited all the grocery stores, but none of them kept oysters, because it is too early in the season.

He next visited the restaurants. A number of them had oysters, but none to sell—just kept them to supply their own customers at the table.

The throttle wielder began to sweat and figure out what kind of a story he would have to put up when he got home, for he was then on his way to the last place where they kept oysters.

He asked the price and was told twenty-five cents a dozen. He cast up what it would cost him to feed the crowd at his house, provided they ate like himself, and saw that it would almost take a month's pay.

He explained to the restaurant man his dilemma, and that individual, either through pity or a miscalculation, let him have a half gallon for fifty cents.

The engineer rushed home and found the people he had invited assembled, for they were beginning to hunger.

The bivalves were soon prepared and the guests fell to, but the vendor must have used something to prevent the oysters from leaving the oyster tank, for there was not more than a dozen in the half gallon.

The engineer, who had been congratulating himself on getting the oysters at such a reduced price, was, to use his own expression, "badly beat," when he was twitted on his bargain.

He vowed, however, that he would yet have enough oyster soup to drown his tormentors, so he hustled for the nearest grocery store. The clerk was leaving for the night, but he was overtaken and persuaded to return to the store, where the engineer bought several cans of cove oysters, and then hastened home.

It always takes milk to make oyster soup, and the good woman of the house had used all she had on hand to make the first lot. A neighbor volunteered to go on the hunt for more of the lacteal fluid, and after arousing several families he secured a quart. With this the soup was made, and for the second time the guests were seated at the table, where they were bountifully helped, and while they had to praise the engineer for his efforts, they also had a great laugh at his expense.

He now says he will wait until every grocery store in Sedalia keeps oysters before he gives another supper.

In organizing the company of fun makers to appear in the new, successful, "up-to-date," farce-comedy surprise, "A Railroad Ticket," which will be seen at the opera house Monday, October 2nd, Manager Will Freeman set out with the determination to secure as good talent as money could get together. That he has admirably succeeded can be seen from the list of the company he has engaged. Arthur Moulton, as clever a light comedian as there is in farce-comedy, and who has ably assisted Frank Daniels and Willie Collier to success, plays the leading comedy role; Anna Caldwell, last season principal soubrette with Donnelly & Girard in "Natural Gas," plays the principal soubrette role. James T. Kelley, Harry Blaney, James Bevins, Harry Porter, Rose Chesneau, Hattie Waters, Jeannette Bageard, Louise Caprini and Marie Bach are all clever in their respective lines, and aid greatly to the success of "A Railroad Ticket."

THE DEMOCRAT, SEDALIA, MO.

Office: 307 Ohio St. Telephone 232.

Official Paper of the City of Sedalia.

THE Maryland democrats, in state convention, endorsed President

Cleveland's position on the silver question.

EVERY Sedalian should resolve to make the business revival date from this week. There is no use to talk hard times.

If the attendance at the fair had been as good as the racing there would be a big showing on the right side of the ledger.

THOSE merchants who are advertising most persistently are enjoying a good trade. Printers' ink is a profitable investment.

THE DEMOCRAT is conceded to be the best as well as the cheapest paper in the city and by far the best advertising medium.

THE silver question may profitably be still further debated before the people in the next campaign,

but not in the senate now.

IN circulation, in appearance and in news the DEMOCRAT leads the journalistic procession in Sedalia.

Being the best and the cheapest, it is the people's favorite.

THE Springfield Democrat calls for more activity in the matter of the north and south railroad. The enterprise should be completed from the Iowa line to Springfield next year.

THE Globe-Democrat thinks the vote in the senate on the repeal bill will be followed by one of the most substantial business booms

the country has ever known. Then lets have a vote at once.

WHEN the United States senators begin to get mad and indulge in personalities, as was the case yesterday in the tilt between Wolcott and Gorman, it is getting time to quit talking and take a vote.

THE races so far have demonstrated the correctness of the claim that the Sedalia kite track is the best in the country. This will tend to make the Queen City the center of the horse breeding industry in the west and will add largely to the value of Pettis county real estate.

GOVERNOR STONE has appointed

Col. Wm. F. Switzer a curator of the state university to fill a vacancy on the board. Both as a law-maker and a journalist Col. Switzer has been an earnest worker for the university for many years, Columbia being his old home and the university an object of especial pride.

DIPHTHERIA is epidemic in portions of Indiana and Illinois. It has reappeared at Terre Haute where there were 500 cases and 100

deaths last year. Also at Marshall,

Illinois, where the schools and Sunday schools have been closed. The Joliet schools have also been closed for a week.

It is not at all likely that either

Mr. Cleveland or Mr. Whitney promised to make Van Alen minister to Italy in consideration of his subscription to the campaign fund.

But why on earth has he been named for the place? Does any one believe he is the best qualified democrat in the country for the place?

THE Post-Dispatch is most emphatically mistaken when it says that Senators Vest and Cockrell

"have antagonized a majority of the democrats of the state by antagon-izing the president's efforts for repeal." The democrats of Missouri almost to a man endorse the position of their senators on this question.

As soon as the fair is over steps should be taken for securing a better attendance next year. Sedalia can not afford to see the State fair go down. It should be so organized as to interest the farmer, the stockman, the mechanic, the business man—every citizen should be made to feel an interest in the annuual exhibition.

THE press and the politicians need lose no sleep in speculating as to what Dick Bland's future political affiliations will be. He is in accord with a vast majority of the democrats of Missouri upon all public questions and he will continue to be in the future, as he has been in the past, one of their most trusted political leaders.

It is to be hoped that the next attempt at train robbery will result precisely as the St. Joseph affair.

It will only require a few such experiences to "solve the problem."

A train robber does not relish the idea of attacking the business end of a Winchester, nor can he stand the laugh the whole country indulges in when it learns that he has been trapped and caught.

THE eastern republicans are divided on the silver question, and there is a prospect for a pretty fight between the goldbugs and the tariff barons as to which shall run the government. The goldbugs are willing to see the tariff reformed, if only the gold standard is retained.

The manufacturers are ready to assist the silver men, provided there is to be no tariff reform.

THE Massachusetts democrats have nominated a farmer, Hon.

John E. Russell, for governor, on a platform denouncing the McKinley tariff, favoring the repeal of the Sherman law and calling for state banks of issue with federal supervision or a re-organization of the national banking system "so that the people of all sections of the country may be enabled to supply themselves with the banking facilities enjoyed by other civilized nations."

FINE CHICKENS

From the Spring Farm Poultry

Yards of L. R. Castle.

Some of the finest poultry on exhibition at the fair is exhibited by

L. R. Castle, who has six coops which is attracting much attention and which received several premiums.

Mr. Castle is making a specialty of the breeding of Silver-laced Wy-andots and Black Langshans, his Silver-laced Wyandots being of the Ballard stock, which is considered the finest strains of that breed of poultry. He is also breeding Black Minoscas, Brown

Leghorns and Houdans. He has just started in the fine poultry business and has already over 100 pure bred chickens, beside a number of high grades. His full bloods being the very best strains of the different breeds.

The Spring farm poultry yards is eight miles east of Sedalia and three miles north of Smithton. See this fine poultry and leave your orders for eggs. Address L. R. Castle,

Sedalia, Mo.

Tariff and Silver Men.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28.—

Senator Cameron's open announcement in the senate that he was going to stand by the silver men and hoped that they would in turn stand by him to prevent legislation unfriendly to Pennsylvania industries, has a sequel. The Manufacturers' club, of Philadelphia, composed of wealthy men, is circulating a paper

among manufacturers for signatures. This memorial is to be sent to the Pennsylvania senators and representatives, and when it arrives it will be presented to congress. It appeals to them to work for the compromise on the silver question. It sets forth that the signers favor both metals as money. It goes on to say that the manufacturers do not expect to avert a reduction on some items in the McKinley tariff law, but don't want to be put in a position where they can be ruined. It urges the senators to resist any cloture to pass the repeal bill, as the effect would be to give the majority the power to pass any kind of a tariff bill. The spirit of bargain between tariff and silver is beginning to show itself unmistakably.

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE DEAN."

The Spooner's Brilliant Production of Hal Reid's Fine Comedy.

Hal Reid, of New York, sat in a box at Wood's opera house last night and saw, for the first time, the production of what he is said to consider his best play. The piece was written to order for the Spooner Comedy company.

The audience was the best of the engagement thus far, nearly every seat, upstairs and down, being taken. The occasion, for several reasons, was one of unusual interest. Mr. Spooner, partly in honor of the author's presence, had made special arrangements for the setting of the play, and the drawing room scene, which was the one mostly used during the evening, was especially beautiful and elaborate.

"The Dean" is termed a "natural comedy," and is said to closely resemble "The Professor's Love Story"—the great play presented by the distinguished English actor, E. S. Willard, now in this country.

Mr. B. S. Spooner assumes the role, Elliott Woodward—of the dean—professor in a university, who loves a fast horse even better than he does his books. His droll manner is admirably adapted to the character he so delightfully portrays.

Mons. Manric Le Voge—an amusing French character—was exquisitely impersonated by Mr. Malcolm Williams.

Golden Dream is also an interesting figure in the hands of Mr. George S. Gardner.

John Hammond, the lover of Clara Woodward, was played excellently by Mr. Lester Watters.

Mr. Jack Long made a capital Presbyterian minister—the Rev. Aaron Skinner.

Lulu Delmo and Mollie G. Spooner were the Mona Irving and Katherine Ostrander, and came in for their share the generous applause.

Edna May as Clara Woodman, was at her best. Her sweet voice and sympathetic manner, won her renewed admiration. She is brilliant in almost any impersonation.

The charming Cecil Spooner, as Tom Darton, the jockey, was fairly in her element.

The Mexican troubadours furnished a fine musical entertainment and were several times encored.

The large audience were delighted with the freshness and beauty of this new comedy.

ROBBERS AND WRECKERS.

They Made Eighty-Two Attempts in the First Six Months of 1893.

The Railroad Gazette has collected statistics of train wrecking and train robbing for the first six months of 1893, which yield some surprising results. One is accustomed to think of train wreckers and train robbers as infesting sparsely settled Western states, but statistics show, on the contrary, that such crimes are most prevalent in well-settled states. The Gazette's figures show sixty-one attempts to wreck trains and twenty-one attempts to rob them. Massachusetts and Illinois heads the list in the number of attempts to wreck trains, and Ohio follows.

In these three advanced states were made more than one-half of all the attempts to wreck trains, and the state of New York follows. The only explanation offered for this preponderance of train wrecking in well-settled and, generally speaking, well-governed states is that the mileage of railroads is greater in those states than in others, and that tramps, who are responsible for most attempts to wreck trains, flourish in thickly settled regions.

The geographical distribution of attempts at train robbing are still more curious. Iowa heads the list; Indiana Territory and Oklahoma taken together have the same number; Texas follows and then comes Kansas and Nebraska. Sixty-seven per cent of all the train robberies occurred in these four states and two territories.

UNWANTED PRECAUTION.

The Woman Who is Afraid of Electricity Goes as of Mile.

The woman who is so "afraid of electricity" seems to get commoner every day. She took about five minutes to board a Boston horse car lately, just because there was an electric car directly behind it. The conductor encouraged her all he could from the platform, but after casting startled glances at the big car standing on the track she would make an ineffectual attempt to reach the steps of the car in front of it, and when within a few feet of it she always dodged back with a little squeal, as if she thought the car would jump the track, trolley and all, for the sole purpose of running her down.

It was not until the policeman saw the dilemma and took her by the arm and led her aboard that she accomplished the feat. Even then she came in muttering: "I can't help it. I am scared to death of electricity." It goes without saying that she was young and pretty. Otherwise no one would have bothered to wait for her, and she might still be dodging out into the street and back. In fact she was so pretty that the conductor and policeman were patient, and it is surprising that some man on the car did not dart into the street and fetch her aboard in his arms. She was so scared that she would not have minded such gallantry.

NO DAMAGE DONE.

The Soup Only Needed a Tack Hammer to Make It Perfect.

When a man enters a restaurant he generally does so in search of food, but sometimes finds other things. The man entered a certain restaurant in St. Louis and noting on the bill of fare a rather rich soup called for it. The waiter, after waiting as all waiters do until the guest's patience was exhausted, brought him the delicacy smoking hot and set it before him. After imbibing several spoonfuls the man felt a gritty substance collide with his grinders, and after several vain attempts to crush it reached for it with his fingers. Imagine his astonishment to find the refractory substance nothing more or less than a good sized carpet tack.

Calling the waiter, the man laid the matter before him, reproaching him with such useless ferocity and reckless disregard of human life. The waiter was astonished, but managed to articulate blandly:

"Just throw it on the floor; it won't hurt anything," and thinking he had made the amende honorable, he departed, whistling "After the Ball."

Boot-Blacks in France.

Women in France support themselves blackening shoes. Along the quay of Havre, and especially in the vicinity of the transatlantic steamship docks it is a common sight to find a cheery little femme on her knees, in a short dress, black blouse and a cap as white as the crest of the waves, varnishing a countryman's patent leathers or staining the russet shoes of a man from Des Moines. These women "boots" are usually the wives or widows of sailors, fishers or longshoremen. They are not bonny, but they have the sunshine in their hearts, the news of the harbor at their tongues' ends and they are deft of touch, thorough in their work and excessively polite. When asked the price of their service they invariably answer: "As you like, sir." There are only two steamer days a week, but they all make enough to live on.

"The Man of Iron."

"Giles the Wizard," was one of the persons put to death during the witchcraft persecutions at Salem, Mass. His real name was Giles Corey, and at the time of his awful death he was an old man past 80. When accused of being a "wizard" (which the Salem lunatics seem to have considered the masculine of "witch"), he calmly met their charges and coolly informed them that he would die rather than admit that he had ever had communion with evil spirits. He was put to the peine forte et dure (death by pressure with huge weights), his fortitude during his dying moments winning for him the title used in the headline.

CURED THE SNAKE BITE.

A Negro "Yarb Doctor" Finds a New Use for the Cotton Seed.

Dr. E. Steiner of Waynesboro, Ga., relates a rather remarkable occurrence in which a negro girl and a rattlesnake figure.

The girl was recently bitten by a snake of this species, whose venom almost defies scientific treatment even when it is applied by the most skillful physician at once. An old negro named Jim Beale undertook the cure and succeeded triumphantly, and with a remedy never heard of before. The cotton plant has been found to serve many purposes for food and clothing, etc., but so far never was used before by any other doctor than old Jim to cure rattlesnake bites.

Dr. Steiner says he was not told of the accident until next morning, though it happened on his farm. A rattlesnake bite usually kills in half an hour unless checked by remedies. Dr. Steiner says he saw the patient on Monday morning after being bitten on Sunday walking about. The only effect of the bite was a slight swelling of the toes on the foot bitten.

Old Jim is a sort of "yarb doctor" and applied nature's remedies without consulting therapeutics.

He first very wisely applied a ligature around the girl's ankle and squeezed out as much poisoned blood as he could immediately after she was bitten. After which he made a poultice of cotton seed, which contains ammonia, and applied it to the wound, and gave her also cotton seed tea to drink. Ammonia is the usual antidote for the poison of snakes (except of course, "corn juice" at fishing frolics), and old Dr. Jim was applying science in his experience. He then cut open the rattlesnake and squeezing out the blood applied a piece of the fleshy part to the wound, bandaging it on firmly.

The girl is cured and there is the fact for your consideration.

THE RABBIT PEST.

In New Zealand Cats Are Taught to Catch the Troublesome Little Animals.

In New Zealand the sheep farmer drives from one log cabin to another on his "run" with a cartful of cats in cages, which are deposited at each and taught to earn a living by keeping down the rabbit plague. The demand for cats, fostered by the increase of the rabbits, even disturbs the domestic circle, when hearth-rug favorites of known home-making habits mysteriously disappear, and bereaved housewives on comparing notes find a suspicious correspondence between the rise in the price offered by the advertising farmers and the sudden loss of their household pets.

In Australia the rabbit has learned a new accomplishment. In California it has forgotten an old one. The Australian rabbit has developed long claws and climbs the scrubs with ease, in order to eat the leaves when grass is scarce.

WAS WEARY OF LIVING.

AN EX-SALVATION WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

A Befriended Fallen Woman Said to Be Responsible for the Rash Act.

Mrs. Dora Reed, an ex-member of the Salvation army, took a large quantity of morphine Tuesday night with suicidal intent, at 211 Elm street, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of last evening. She is now lying at the city hospital in an unconscious condition and with little chance of recovery. About 6 o'clock this morning Frank Turner, a tomala manufacturer, with whom she has been living, rushed into the four courts and informed the police that the woman had taken poison and was dying in their room, at 115 South Seventh street. He said that last night the woman had told him that she had taken morphine, but he thought that she was merely trying to frighten him. He was awakened early this morning by her moans and upon lighting a lamp he discovered that she was unconscious and was bleeding at the mouth. The police had her conveyed to the dispensary and thence to the city hospital, where she is expected to die at any moment.

There is a somewhat romantic story behind the attempt of Mrs. Reed at self-destruction. For some time prior to a month ago she, with her husband, Samuel Reed, were soldiers in that detachment of the Salvation army which gathers in the headquarters on Market, between Fifth and Sixth streets. The couple were earnest workers in the cause they had espoused, and until a month ago lived happily together. In their work in the scarlet district they rescued a young girl and sheltered her in their home preparatory to finding her a permanent abode. Reed, it is alleged, was smitten with their protegee and soon grew cold towards his wife. Mrs. Reed begged him to send the girl away and a rupture between them occurred, which ended in Mrs. Reed's ejection from the house.

While waiting for a car on her way home from the army meetings each night Mrs. Reed became acquainted with Turner, who keeps a lunch stand at Broadway and Market streets. To him she confided her troubles. He offered to assist her and persuaded her to give up any ideas of a reconciliation with her husband and live with him. He took her to his place at 211 Elm street and there they remained until last Monday, when he engaged better apartments at 115 South Seventh street. During her liaison with Turner she learned to love him and became so jealous of him that she would not permit him out of her sight. Her conduct annoyed Turner and they had several trivial altercations. Last Saturday she received a letter from her recreant husband in Illinois, in which he told her he was done with her and was going to Iowa. Since then she has been very despondent, and when she had a dispute with Turner last night threatened to commit suicide. Her threat was laughed at by Turner.

TALKED HIMSELF TO JAIL.

A JASPER COUNTY MAN WHO COULDN'T KEEP STILL.

He Went to Jail and Entertained a Trusty With His Story--Fruits for His Sweetheart.

The Carthage Democrat tells the story of a horse thief who gave himself away and is now in jail. The Democrat says:

Yesterday morning a young man about 20 years of age, with rather a tough looking appearance, giving his name as Charles Summers, came to this city. He had with him a good looking black horse and went to Bill Brown's livery stable to sell the animal. After considerable talk he and Brown made a deal, Brown buying the horse for $20, paying $10 and placing the other $10 in the hands of J. B. Vinson, who was to turn the money over to Summers providing the horse and the trade proved to be all right. After Summers was paid the $10 he 'bowed up' and then went to the jail to visit his friends incarcerated there. Among the prisoners is Rona Spencer, a character whose name is not unknown to court records, and who more than once has signed the roll of jail birds at the sheriff's office. It will be remembered that she is the gay cyprion that escaped a few nights ago through the hole in the wall of the "soiled dove" department of the county jail, and who, sailor-like, swung herself from a dangling rope made of bed clothes tied together, to the depths below, where, it has always been supposed, she dropped herself in the arms of the gallant Lothario who had planned the escape and assisted her as they skipped trippingly o'er the grass. Whether Summers assisted her on that night will never positively be known, but if he did his mission this time was for another object.

He had money and wanted to be generous and Rona was the one to whom he wanted to show gratitude and favor. Before visiting the jail he imbued freely and when he arrived at the jail he had with him a dollar's worth of cigars, a basket of Concord grapes, three watermelons and two dozen bananas. Most of this was for Rona, but others delighted in his generosity. While there he told a trusty that he had stolen a horse and the trusty imparted his information to Deputy McMechan, who at once proceeded to investigate and who was not long in finding out that a horse had been stolen at Joplin. Summers' actions were sufficient to arouse suspicion, and when Deputy McMechan returned to the jail he was still there and at once the deputy placed him in a cell. There was little doubt that Summers was guilty, and at 6 o'clock last evening B. F. Morris, of Joplin, the man from whom the horse was stolen, arrived in the city and identified his horse, saddle and bridle. The horse is a valuable one, worth fully $100, a much higher price being offered not long since. Mr. Morris stated that he would not part with the animal for $100.

The horse had been taken from Watson's livery barn at Joplin at about 9 o'clock Saturday night and was ridden away. Brown refuses to give up the horse until he gets his $10, which Morris refuses to pay. Mr. Morris returned to Joplin and will replenish the horse today, which expense Brown forces upon Morris, as he will not pay him the $10 that Summers has spent for "booze" and sweet meats for Rona.

Mr. Morris will have no trouble in getting his horse back and Summers will get to visit Jefferson City in the near future. His acts would indicate that he is more of an imbecil than a thief and a better subject for an asylum than for a penitentiary.

Among the papers taken from Summers' pockets was a poorly written piece of manuscript, evidently a forgery, which read as follows:

The bearer hereof, Charlie Summers, has been an acceptable member of the Blendeville M. E. church south, Blendeville circuit, Southwest Missouri conference. This certificate must be presented within one year from date or it will be considered null and void.

CLEVELAND ON FINANCES.

The President's Reply to the Question of Governor Northern, of Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 28.—In reply to a letter from Gov. Northern asking the president to give his position on financial matters, Mr. Cleveland has sent the following reply:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 25.—To Hon. W. J. Northern: MY DEAR SIR—I hardly know how to reply to your letter of the 15th inst. It seems to me that I am quite plainly on record concerning the financial question. My letter accepting the nomination to the presidency, when read in connection with the message lately sent to congress in extraordinary session appears to me to be very explicit. I want a currency that is stable and safe in the hands of our people. I would not knowingly be implicated in a condition that will justly make me in the least degree answerable to any laborer or farmer in the United States for the shrinkage in the purchasing power of the dollar he has received for a full dollar's worth of work, or for a good dollar's worth of the product of his toil. I not only want our currency to be of such a character that all kinds of dollars will be of equal purchasing power at home, but I want it to be of such a character as will demonstrate abroad our wisdom and good faith, thus placing upon a firm foundation our credit among the nations of the earth. I want our financial conditions and the laws relating to our currency so safe and reassuring that those who have money will spend and invest it in business and new enterprises instead of hoarding it. You cannot cure fright by calling it foolish and unreasonable, and you cannot prevent the frightened man from hoarding his money.

I want good, sound stable money, and a condition of confidence that will keep it in use.

Within the limits of what I have written I am a friend of silver, but I believe its proper place in our currency can only be fixed by a re-adjustment of our currency legislation and the inauguration of a consistent and comprehensive financial scheme. I think such a thing can only be entered upon profitably and hopefully after the repeal of the law, which is charged with all our financial woes. In the present state of the public mind this law cannot be built upon nor patched in such a way as to relieve the situation.

I am, therefore, opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver by this country alone, and independently, and I am in favor of the immediate and unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the so-called Sherman law.

I confess I am astonished by the opposition in the senate to such prompt action as would relieve the present unfortunate situation. My daily prayer is that the delay occasioned by such opposition may not be the cause of plunging the country into deeper depression than it has yet known and that the democratic party may not be justly held responsible for such a catastrophe.

Yours very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

Why is it that constant exercise and practice is the one grand remedy for young men and children? Because it so acts on the body that all organs are made strong, vigorous and powerful. The reason why sufferers are not cured by some physicians and medicines is because over 90 per cent. do not take exercise enough to digest their meals, for which constant exercise and practice is the only known remedy to cure the complaint without an operation. NEWS OF THE RAIL.

TALK ABOUT TROUBLE ON THE BIG FOUR RAILWAY.

GUARDING EXPRESS CARS.

Items of Interest Picked Up for the Benefit of Readers of the "Democrat."

Chief Sargent, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, in consultation with a reporter at Terre Haute, Ind., last night, said: "This afternoon I received a telegram from Mr. Underhill, the firemen's chairman at Cincinnati, saying that the committee expected to finish the count of the vote tonight."

At 10:30 last night Chief Sargent received another message from Cincinnati, saying that the vote of the engineers and firemen had just been received, but that owing to the fact that the representative of one of the orders had not yet arrived with his vote, the result would not be announced until tomorrow (today). The firemen's vote is all counted and ready to be announced and has been for several days, but the result cannot be given till all the orders are represented.

It is said, however, on good authorities, that the engineers, firemen, switchmen, telegraph operators and brakemen voted to strike. The conductors are said to have voted against it and favored the reduction.

The Other Side of the Case.

An Indianapolis dispatch says: That there will be no general strike on the Big Four road seems to be a practical certainty. H. J. Heffernan, of Mattoon, Ill., chief of the conductors' division of the employees, says that the vote will be found to declare almost unanimously against a strike. Should any further trouble occur it will be confined to limited sections of the road. The officials here are inclined to believe that the decision of a majority of the trainmen settles the matter for good, and that no further disturbances will occur.

"By next Saturday night," said General Manager Van Winkle, "the talk of a strike will have died away, and no one not knowing the circumstances will suspect that there had ever been a disturbance of any kind."

Guards For Express Messengers.

A piece of gossip was yesterday going the rounds of express circles, says the St. Louis Republic, which, in view of the recent express robberies, is of unusual interest. It was to the effect that the express companies doing business in St. Louis had decided to hereafter send armed guards with their railway messengers, and in that way render train robbery a very precarious undertaking. It was said that the two unsuccessful attempts at train robberies in Nebraska and Illinois had convinced express companies that this is the way to meet train robbery. The rumor had it that last night had been selected as the time when the plan should be placed in general operation.

Inquiry at the several express offices elicited statements that only one company has yet placed the plan in operation. That company sends out from two to four guards with each messenger, depending on the amount of valuables which the messenger has in charge. It could not be learned whether any agreement had been entered into to make the practice general among the companies, but all of the companies send out special guards on some occasions.

Regarding the Rail.

Conductor Charlie Blair has gone to the World's fair.

J. H. Mara came home from Chicago last evening.

Detective Pat Lally came in from St. Louis last evening.

Supt. L. D. Hopkins came in from the east yesterday afternoon.

The "Katy" shops are closed today in order that the employees may take in the fair.

The narrow gauge brought in two cars of hogs from Warsaw and six from Mora last evening.

Superintendent W. G. Brownlee, of the eastern division of the Missouri Pacific, is in town today.

The Missouri Pacific shops are closed today, in order that the employees may have an opportunity of attending the fair.

The colored people of Kentucky have raised $40,000 to fight the "separate coach bill." Col. Robert Ingersoll has been retained to fight the measure.

Harry Smith, late of the Katy hospital, left last night for the World's fair, and after a short sojourn there will proceed to New York and enter Bellevue medical college.

The receivers of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad issued a circular yesterday afternoon announcing a reduction of 5 and 10 per cent in the wages of trainmen, to take effect November 1. The men will submit.

New Franklin, the first station on the M., K. & E., has been changed to the name of Kingsbury. The depot has been moved to the junction of the M., K. & T. and M., K. & E. and will be known as Franklin Junction.—Parsons Eclipse.

Tremont Wilson, who is engaged in railroad building in eastern Indiana, is now making a survey for a standard-gauge railroad between Nevada and El Dorado Springs. The distance is about twenty miles. Mr. Wilson wants Nevada to raise a bonus sufficient to interest his company.

Hugh McCormick, the Western Union lineman, last night night received instructions from headquarters in St. Louis to string another wire along the M., K. & T., from Sedalia to Franklin, to connect with the M., K. & E. at the latter point. This is a good indication that M., K. & T. trains are to be run by dispatchers stationed in Sedalia.

The striking switchmen on the Louisville and Nashville have returned to work for twenty-four hours. Meantime it is said that a meeting of representatives of the various orders of railway operatives, now in progress, will decide whether a general strike is to occur or harmonious relations be restored. □

It has been rumored on the street today that Division Superintendent Kellar, of the Missouri Pacific, had resigned his position with the company. A Mail reporter called the matter to Mr. Kellar's attention. It was the first intimation which he had had of his intention in that direction. There is no truth in the report.—Nevada Mail.

The report sent broadcast over the country yesterday, that a Missouri, Kansas and Texas wreck in Texas had killed eight men, was denied at the general offices of the company. The only foundation for the story was the running together of two work engines, neither of which was injured. General Manager Purdy pointed to the proud record that the "Katy" has of never having killed a passenger.—St. Louis Republic.

The new time card on the "Katy" seems to have been a Jonah to the trains on the main line of the road, they having been late every day since the card was issued.... Passenger business continues to hold up on the M., K. & T. It is a notable fact that since the retirement of A. Faulkner as general passenger and ticket agent of the company and the appointment of James Barker to that position the passenger business of the company began to improve until today no road leading to the southwest can boast of a heavier passenger traffic. Barker and his methods seem to take with the people of this section.—Parsons Sun.

KENTUCKY JUSTICE.

The Man Won the Horse, But His Lawyer Got It.

One day when I was in one of the mountain county seats of Kentucky, I dropped into the court house to listen to a case in which one man was suing another for the recovery of a horse. A couple of hours after the case had been decided, I met the defendant in the street.

"Well," I said to him, "that fellow didn't get your horse, did he?"

"Not much," he replied, but not as cheerfully as I expected.

"There was a time there," I went on, "when I thought you'd have to walk home sure."

"Yes," he said, "it did look that a-way, but that lawyer ur mine wuz too peart for him. Fine lawyer, he is."

"Very good," I affirmed. "How far do you live from here?"

"Ten miles the way I've got to go."

"That isn't so bad when a man has a horse to ride."

"But I hain't," he said lugubriously.

"Why not? Didn't you just recover him?"

"Ya-as," he hesitated, "but I had to give him to that dern lawyer fer his fee."

An Official Advocate of Duelling.

Baron von Bauer, Austrian minister of war, said at a recent sitting of the budget committee of the Austrian delegation the other day that the present condition of society did not permit of the abolition of duelling. He did not approve of duels on principle, but many classes of the population would not in the event of the abolition of duelling adopt any forcible method of settling their differences, but would have recourse to "rougher means"—the fist, the stick, or the revolver. In his opinion there was nothing to be said against an officer who might decline to fight a duel, but he recommended those opposed to duelling to avoid the society of those by whom they might be insulted and take care not to offend others.

A Short Sultan With a Long Name.

The sultan of Djoejakata, the chief ruler of one of the insignificant dependencies of the Netherlands, and whom William of Holland invested with the titular dignity of "Commander of the Order of the Lion of the Netherlands" early in the year 1891, seems to be a little man with a big name. The country that he rules is not larger than a Missouri county and the sultan himself is a dwarf of only three feet ten inches, yet he has a name composed of fifty-nine letters, viz: Hamankowonosenopatingalagonabgurrachmansaydinupotogomode. He is fifth in line with the same name and is known as Ham. etc.

Rocks Rent by Growing Trees.

There is a great natural curiosity at Garfield cottage, just a mile from Bethlehem, N. H. In the side yard is an enormous boulder which must weigh eight tons or more. It has been split by a live white birch tree which started life in a tiny cleft of this immense rock, sent down its roots into the earth, little by little widened the cleft, until nearly thirty years ago came the split, and one-third of the boulder was pushed off by the tree, now of good size, but strangely twisted as to limbs and trunk. In the same yard are four smaller trees in various stages of growth, some having already started cracks in their rocky homes.

Willing to Be "Hanged."

"I wouldn't have minded it so much," said the prisoner as he smiled a sad, sweet smile at the lady who had brought him the bouquet, "if the court had been a man of any culture." "Isn't it terrible to think of the dreadful, coarse, horrible fellows who are elected to honorable positions here in the West?" she murmured sympathetically. "Yes," he answered with a sigh, "to be tried and condemned by a man of his stamp was awful, and then when he said that I was to be 'hung' by the neck until dead it grated on my nerves more than I can tell you."

Effects of a Stroke of Lightning.

Martin Campbell, who was killed in Brooklyn recently by a stroke of lightning, was marked by the electric fluid in a peculiar manner. About his neck was a fine crimson line, which, under the chin extended down the chest to the abdomen. Throughout the whole extent extended a multitude of branches and branchlets. The right thigh was similarly marked. A peculiar phase of the marking lay in the fact that they were entirely superficial, not penetrating the outer skin.

Poculus' Description of a Unicorn.

Paulus Poculus gives the following description of the unicorn, an animal now generally admitted by all zoologists to have been only a creature of fable: "He is a beast in shape like a horse, of a dusty colour, with a mayned neck, a hairy beard and a forehead armed with a horn of the quantity of two cubits, being of spiral shape, and of ivory of exceeding purity and wonderful power of expelling all venom and poison whatsoever."

An Oddly Named Family.

Dr. Rupert of Greenbrier county, West Virginia, is the father of fifteen children, whose names all begin with the letter L and end with a vowel. The children's names are Ledona, Lavaria, Livigua, Lorena, Lyceana, Lualzo, Leaney, Lancelia, Ladura, Leonida, Luma, Lydabo, Lomega, Lenida and Leslie.

Too Cruel.

"Men are not to be trusted," she remarked to her younger and more successful friend. "Oh, my dear," said her friend sweetly, "has it taken all these years to teach you that?" The silence that followed couldn't be broken with a sledge-hammer.

FORTY-FIVE CENTS

IS A SMALL SUM, BUT IT PAYS FOR THE BEST PAPER IN SEDALIA---

THE EVENING DEMOCRAT!

FOR ONE MONTH.

During the year ending September 15, 1893, the circulation of the DEMOCRAT increased one hundred per cent, showing that the paper is a prime favorite with all classes of readers.

It is strictly democratic, but while outspoken in advocacy of its principles, the DEMOCRAT is fair to everybody and a friend to every worthy enterprise.

The circulation of the DEMOCRAT, greater than any Sedalia paper ever enjoyed before, is conclusive evidence of its merits.

Tell your neighbor that the DEMOCRAT only costs FORTY-FIVE CENTS per month--the cheapest and the best.

WHY IS IT THE BEST?

Because it publishes the news the day it occurs and gives its readers every evening a full and authentic history of Sedalia, with general news from everywhere.

TRY IT A MONTH!

SOLEMNIZED LAST NIGHT.

MARRIAGE OF D. J. HOGAN AND JULIA SULLIVAN.

St. Vincent Church Crowded With the Friends of a Popular Young Couple.

Beautiful, indeed, was the interior of St. Vincent de Paul church last night on the occasion of the solemnization of the marriage of Mr. Daniel J. Hogan and Miss Julia Sullivan, two of Sedalia's most popular young people. During the day friends of the contracting parties had expended hours in decorating the edifice, and the sight that met the eye of the visitor on entering last evening was one that brought forth compliments on every hand.

The hour for the marriage was 8 o'clock, but even before 7:30 o'clock every seat was occupied, with the exception of those reserved near the chancel for the bridal party, and half an hour later scores remained on the outside, unable to cross the threshold.

At 8 o'clock, while the wedding march was being played, the ushers, Messrs. Tim Sullivan, brother of the bride, and Henry Jones, marched down the center aisle, followed by Mr. Charles Graham and Miss Mary Ellen Collins. Next came the groom, Mr. Hogan, with the first bridesmaid, Miss Dollie O'Conner. The bride followed, leaning on the arm of Mr. Mike Anderson.

The wedding party took their positions in front of the altar, a special choir in the meantime singing most sweetly, "Oh, Promise Me," after which the solemn and impressive marriage ceremony of the Catholic church was pronounced by Rev. Father J. T. D. Murphy.

The bride was attired in white, as were also the bridesmaids. Dress suits of black, with white ties and gloves, were worn by the gentlemen.

The ceremony concluded, the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Sullivan, on East Third street, where an elegant wedding supper was partaken of and where mirth reigned supreme until midnight, when Mr. and Mrs. Hogan left for St. Louis, Chicago and a visit to Mr. Hogan's people in Ohio.

The bride is a prime favorite in the circle in which she moves and is possessed of all the graces essential to true womanhood.

The groom has been a resident of Sedalia for many years, and by his worthiness has just been promoted and given a run as passenger conductor on the M., K. & E. That he will prove a model husband for his most estimable bride the DEMOCRAT feels assured.

It is almost needless to say that the presents received by the young couple were many in number, beautiful in pattern and several of them exceedingly valuable.

The DEMOCRAT extends its congratulations, and wishes for Mr. and Mrs. Hogan a full share of all the good things found in life.

At an early hour this morning an insane man, a stranger, entered Cole Camp. He was dressed only in shirt and drawers, having thrown away the balance of his clothes.

Death of Thomas G. Inman.

Thomas G. Inman, a member of the live stock commission firm of Wade, Inman & Co., died at his home, 1530 Wabash avenue, Tuesday night, of paralysis. He was 48 years old and leaves a family. The funeral will be held today.—Kansas City Journal, 28th.

The Lamonte Record of last Friday printed a paragraph chronicling Mr. Inman's death, but it was evidently premature. The deceased was for many years a resident of Lamonte, and was well and favorably known to a large circle of friends in Sedalia.

Disgusted "Boomers."

A number of families who left their homes in the states of Illinois and Iowa, for the purpose of taking claims in the Cherokee strip, camped last night on the common between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, east of the railroad. They were homeward bound, having been left in the "rush" for claims in the strip. They said that many people were suffering for the necessities of life there, but were unable, from lack of means, to get away.

THE ASIATIC SCOURGE.

Steering Passengers on an Italian Ship Dying by Wholesale.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Captain Black, of the steamship Hogarth, which arrived yesterday from Santos, reports that an Italian steamship—probably the Vincenzo Florio, which sailed from Genoa on August 24 for Rio Janeiro—had been forbidden to enter the harbor of Santos because she had cholera aboard. Capt. Black said he had not heard the name of the steamship.

There was a rumor in Santos that the immigrants aboard the steamship were dying at the rate of about twenty-five a day. Some of their bodies had floated ashore at Santos, and the residents of the town were much disturbed.

The Vincenzo Florio measures nearly 3000 tons, and can accommodate about 700 storage passengers. After being ordered from Rio she went to Ilha Grande, sixty-eight miles northwest of Rio. She was not allowed to discharge passengers or cargo there and proceeded south. She was coaled and provisioned only for the voyage to Rio, and it is likely that those of her passengers and crew who escaped the cholera may be starved to death.

ANOTHER "VICTIM."

N. H. ROGERS "KICKS" ON TRADER F. R. SABIN.

REALTY DEALER CAUGHT.

An Abstract That Was Not Worth the Paper It Was Written On, Rogers Says.

"I see F. R. Sabin, the real estate trader, says that among others with whom he has traded since his arrival in Sedalia is a man named Rogers, and none of them have done any kicking," said Mr. N. H. Rogers, of Rogers & Hall, real estate dealers, to a DEMOCRAT reporter, this morning.

"Now I want to state that when he says that I have not kicked he tells what is untrue. I traded with him, and I don't hesitate to say that I was swindled. Then I kicked, and I kicked direct to him.

"I didn't want any newspaper notoriety in connection with the matter, but when Sabin tries to deceive the public at my expense, then it is time to file a protest.

"I traded Sabin a one-half interest in sixty acres of Florida land, receiving in exchange what was alleged to be a deed and abstract to a quarter of a section of land in Barry county.

"Sabin represented everything to be all right and I paid very little attention to the paper, at first. Finally, however, I examined the abstract, and came to the conclusion that something was rotten, but Sabin assured me that I had no cause for alarm.

"I wasn't so sure that he was telling me the truth, however, so I forwarded the abstract to Cassville, the county seat of Barry county, to have it examined, and here is the reply I received," and Mr. Rogers handed over a type-written letter, reading as follows:

CASSVILLE, Mo., Sept. 15, '93.

N. H. ROGERS, Esq., Sedalia, Mo.

DEAR SIR:—All the names you mention are frauds, and your abstract is, too. For $3 I will make you an abstract showing you that what I say is true.

Respytly, yours,
C. D. MANLEY.

"It was after I received Mr. Manley's letter that I called upon Sabin and filed my protest," continued Mr. Rogers, "and he appeared to be greatly surprised. He stated, however, that he had offered me some land the title to which was absolutely perfect, but I had declined to trade for it.

"What did I do with my deed and abstract? A party said he could trade them for a cow, so I gave him the papers and that is the last I have seen of them. No, I haven't got the cow yet, but even a slim prospect of getting her is an improvement on Sabin's papers.

"The land that I traded to Sabin was not valuable, it is true, or I might have made my kick public before now. I understand that Sabin sold it for $15 to my partner, Mr. Hall.

"Of course, I can't do anything with Sabin, but my trade with him has been of great value to me, as I will carefully examine the abstract the next time I do any trading with a stranger."

In connection with the above, Mr. Sabin says Grant Menefee denies that he received so much as a single penny in consideration of having fixed up a trade between Font Merriwether and Sabin, and the DEMOCRAT takes pleasure in giving the gentleman the benefit of the denial.

HERE'S A NEW GAME.

It is Called "Oona" and is Very Popular on the Other Side.

Oona is a new game, specially designed for use on small lawns or places where space is too restricted to allow of lawn tennis or other pastimes which require a large area. It can also be played as an indoor game, the legs of the table being shod with soft material to prevent injury to any polished surface it may stand upon. Any number of players can participate, either forming sides or playing independently. The table is made of polished wood, about two feet six inches in diameter, and ordinary lawn tennis balls are used.

The following are the principal rules of the game.

1. Choose the order of the play. If more than two, fix whether the players be partners or not, and decide the number of balls (not exceeding six) each is to throw.

2. The first player bowls his ball or balls up the incline of the tower in the center of the table, when it will strike off at a tangent, and, if successful, lodge in one of the holes. The act of doing so will release the corresponding flag, which will fly up, the player adding the number it bears to his score.

3. Balls which go off the table or return down the incline are dead.

4. When the player has played all his balls, the next in rotation follows in like manner.

5. The game is usually two points, but this can be varied to suit the taste or convenience of the players.

IT WAS DEAD ECONOMY.

The Way That a Colored Man Wanted to Work the "Ellen En."

An excursion from Birmingham to Montgomery was run the other day, and a negro man appeared at the ticket office in the depot and purchased a ticket for himself. Then he said to the ticket agent:

"Boss, I want 'nother round wip 'scursion ticket for a corpse."

The agent opened his eyes in astonishment. An excursion ticket for a corpse was something new to him, even with his varied experience.

The negro exclaimed: "You see, boss, my brudder died yesterday and I want ter take de corpse down to Montgomery and let de family view de 'mains, and den bring 'em back to Birmingham and bury 'em. Dis will be a heap cheaper den fur de fambly to cum up here."

The agent saw at once that this was a great stroke of economy and enterprise on the part of the negro. There were probably a dozen members of the family, and tickets for them to Birmingham and board while there would be quite expensive. The corpse could get the benefit of excursion rates to Montgomery and would pay no board while there. Thus the negro subserved the ends of economy and preserved his respect for the grief of family at the same time.

Mem. for the Doctors.

A Philadelphia cable car conductor has been sent to a hospital to be cured of what is called a "bell-arm." The patient was a conductor on the forward car of a train of three, and the habit of listening for the sharp ring of the bell on the rear car, followed by the mechanical movement of the arm toward his own bell-strap, has developed the strange ailment. The muscular movement has become a second nature to him, and his arm actually acts more quickly than his brain. As a result the action has become involuntary, and whenever he hears a bell of any kind his arm at once shoots upward toward an imaginary bell-cord.

Suburban Humor.

The citizens of the suburbs of an Eastern city went in a body to the mayor to protest against the erection of a hospital for contagious diseases which it had been proposed to erect in their midst, as it were.

"We would not care, your honor," said the spokesman in conclusion, "but we and our families are not detectives."

"What do you mean by that?" inquired the mayor, in astonishment.

"I mean, your honor, that we are liable to catch something," and the mayor was greatly pleased by this evidence of the development of suburban humor.

PREACHES WHILE ASLEEP.

The Mysterious Case of a Prominent Farmer in Indiana.

VALPARISO, Ind., Sept. 28.—John Kauffmann, a prominent farmer, has developed strange physical and mental conditions and has come to be known as the trance preacher. He preaches while apparently asleep. He lapses into unconsciousness, his body becomes rigid not even a quiver being perceptible, his arms assume an upright position, with fingers extended far apart; in an instant he springs to his feet, kneels in prayer, and then rising commences to preach strangely, making use of both the German and English languages in his discourses. At intervals he mutters unintelligible words which are interpreted by attendants to mean water, and after drinking continues to talk until he becomes completely exhausted when he is laid on the couch where he remains until morning, when he awakes, ignorant of any events which transpired during the preceding night and none the worse physically. Scoffers have been convinced with the reality of his peculiar condition and hundreds of people gather Wednesday and Saturday evenings of each week to listen to the discourses of the sleeping preacher.

A Non-Church-Goers' Black List.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 28.—A new religious movement has been started in Spokane and over 100 members of churches of all denominations have formed an association to compel every body to attend church. A careful canvass is to be made of the city and every one who does not attend church will be listed, and a set of books is to be kept open for inspection, which will be called the black-list books. The only way any one can get their names off the books is to go to church for three consecutive Sundays. There is considerable excitement over the movement.
